Musical group set for church

Dale and Gilda Riddle will return to New Hope Baptist Church in Appomattox this coming Sunday, November 30, to share God's love in word and music.

Dale will be preaching during the morning worship service and also singing several songs with Gilda. Then on Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m., the Riddles will present an entire musical program of song and testimony.

Many people in the Appomattox area got an opportunity to hear the Riddles in August of 1978, when they led a week of Revival Services at New Hope Church.

Dale and Gilda are both graduates of Bluefield College, Sanford University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary with Master's Degrees. Since September of 1977, they have been involved in full-time music and evangelism, with their home base in Greensboro, N.C. They have recorded three L.P. albums, with their latest being entitled, "Thank You, Jesus." Music from all three of their albums is played regularly on station WTTX, "Inspirational Radio," 1280 AM.

The public is cordially invited to come and hear this talented young couple sing "to the glory of God." The Riddles have two children, Tamaon, who is 7, and Morgan, who is 3. The children sing with their parents at times, and they all plan to be at New Hope Church on Sunday, Nov. 30. New Hope Baptist Church is located on Highway 24, six miles east of Appomattox. Rev. Clarence H. Davis is the pastor of the Church.

RIDDLE FAMILY WILL PERFORM AT New Hope

Drought seminar slated for local dairymen Dec. 2

Seminars designed to provide dairymen with guidelines to help them survive the 1980 drought will be held in areas of Virginia which were most severely affected by the drought.

The seminar for this area will be held on Dec. 2, at Westover Dairies, 2801 Fort Avenue in Lynchburg. The program will be sponsored by the Virginia Cooperative Extension Service and Virginia Tech's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences.

The one-day seminar will include discussions of how dairy farms can efficiently stretch available feed supplies, deciding which feed purchases may be more profitable, the prospect of borrowing high interest money to purchase expensive feed, and the possible effects of reducing herd sizes. The program should be of interest to any person actively involved with dairy farms, including farm owners, managers, herdsmen, the feed industry, bankers, farm lenders, and veterinarians, according to J. A. Smith, County Extension Agent.

Seminars will begin at 9:45 a.m. An agricultural economist at Virginia Tech, Professor Robert Reynolds, will discuss how dairymen should examine their cash flow and credit situation. Farmers may have to consider reducing herd sizes and other operating costs rather than buying high cost feed and paying high interest rates.

Farms in drought areas either are limited as to available supply of forages or must feed lower quality feeds. Dr. Jerry Jones, Virginia Tech Dairy Specialist, will explain how to stretch feed supplies, which cattle should be fed higher quality forages, and health or feeding problems which may be anticipated as a result of using different alternatives to survive the crisis.

Economic alternatives to higher priced feeds and the importance of feeding a nutritionally balanced ration will be presented by Dr. Charles Stallings of Virginia Tech's Dairy Science Department. He will discuss how to estimate the feeding value of these forages and ways to determine how these feeds should be supplemented.

Extension Agents, Spencer Tinsley and Sam Waddell, will explain assistance available to dairy farmers through county Extension offices, including availability of disaster loans, procedures for testing forage quality, and assistance with planning of economical feeding programs.

'Snow' pageant set

A Snow Queen pageant will be held Sunday, Dec. 7 at 2 p.m. in the Appomattox Elementary School auditorium.

The winners from each of the three categories will represent Appomattox in the state pageant, which will be held in Staunton, Va., on Aug. 1 and 2 next year.

LARRY FRANKLIN of Concord is shown with a ten-point buck he bagged opening day of deer season, Monday morning. Franklin shot the deer at approximately 8:30 a.m. near Bent Creek. He was still-hunting at the time, and used 12-guage, #1 buck, three-inch shells. The deer, which weighed approximately 200 pounds, is one of several Franklin has killed, but the biggest, in terms of antler spread and points.

DUANE BLANKS of Appomattox is shown with a 14-point buck he killed last week. Blanks, a 17-year-old senior at ACHS, says the 175-pound buck had a 23-inch spread and is the "largest, but not the first deer," he has shot.

A.D. seeks iron weights

The athletic department at Appomattox County High School is seeking additional cast-iron weights for its weight-training programs, according to Athletic Director Stuart Justus.

Justus asks that any person who has cast iron weights (rather than the common plastic-covered concrete weights) who would like to loan or donate them to the high school should contact him at school (352-8435) or at home in the evenings (352-2178). Persons wishing to loan or donate weights may also contact the high school office, at 352-7146.

Justus notes that persons loaning weights to the athletic program may get them back at any time, merely by calling the school and asking that they be returned.

The weights will be used in training for football and other sports, according to Justus. He notes that many of the types of injuries that plagued the Raider football team this season could be avoided with a rigorous pre-season weight-training program.

Justus adds that he or a member of his staff will pick up the weights if the person loaning them so wishes.

RONNIE BRYANT of Appomattox is shown with the eight-point buck he shot while hunting last week with Danny Casey, Eugene Guill and (not shown) Merrill Thomas. The deer, killed on the property of Mr. C.C. Bryant, weighed in at a hefty 250 pounds. The hunters belong to the Rocky Farm Hunt Club based near Oakville.

NANNIE SEAY (Above), is shown with the quilt she made for a contest to benefit the Appomattox Chapter of the American Cancer Society's Cancer Loan Closet. The handmade quilt was awarded to Thelma Christian of Concord this past Saturday. A spokesman for the local chapter of the Cancer Society said the proceeds from the contest will go toward purchase of a new wheelchair. Mrs. Christian, who won the quilt, is shown with her new possession below.
